

Overlength Page Charge Agreement for IEEE Instrumentation and Measurement Society

Overlength pages are charged to both discourage verbose papers and recover expenses for papers that are too long, because IEEE charges the Instrumentation and Measurement Society (IMS) per page for editing, composition, administration, and other processing costs. As such, using IEEE's standard double-column transactions template as the baseline, the free page limit for IMS journals/transactions is as follows:

Regular papers: eight (8) pages
Survey/Review papers: twelve (12) pages
Short papers: two (2) pages
Special Section papers: eight (8) pages, unless stated otherwise by the Special Section

For each page or fraction thereof beyond the above-mentioned free page limit, there is a mandatory overlength page charge of $265 for non-IMS members, or $220 for IMS members. Membership is checked at the time of invoicing.

I, _____, hereby agree, or my organization, _____, hereby agrees, to pay the above-mentioned mandatory overlength page charge, to publish the paper originally entitled:

I understand that, should my paper be accepted and go above its overlength limit, I will be invoiced directly by the IEEE during the publication process of the paper. I also understand that the exact number of pages of an accepted paper will be determined after IEEE's editing process, and not before. I further understand that, except for the discounts specified below, these overlength charges will not be waived under any circumstances.

Discounts: Authors from low-income and lower-middle-income countries, as defined by The World Bank classification of economies, are entitled to 100% and 50% discount, respectively.

This Overlength Page Charge Agreement MUST be signed by an author in the position of authority whose signature commits him/her or his/her institution to the above terms. This form CANNOT be signed by an author without financial authority, such as most students.
